Green Production

Crew & Support Resources · https://oregonfilm.org/article/green-production/

Oregon has been a known leader in environmental initiatives since the 1970s and in keeping with this stewardship, the Oregon Film Office has compiled resources for production companies that are interested in making more sustainable and earth-friendly choices but may not have the time to do the research themselves.

Let us help you make your production greener, and in doing so, you can benefit the local community and the environment overall. Download Oregon Film's Guide to Greening Production below.
